“The human heart desires joy. We all desire joy, every family, every people aspires to happiness.”

“Aristotle – Happiness is the meaning and purpose of life, the whole aim and end of human existence.

“Augustine – We all want to live happily; in the whole human race there is no one who does not assent to this proposition, even before it is fully articulated.

“Aquinas – Man cannot live without joy.

The subject of our inquiry is of immense importance, namely, happiness. Our definition of happiness will determine all of our choices and priorities, shape our outlook, and even determine our destiny.

The desire for happiness is the root and driver of all human behavior; the ultimate fulfillment of all desires; the only goal that people pursue for its own sake. It is also the fundamental catalyst for a life of holiness, the deepest longing of the human heart.

It is no accident therefore, that the Church, as an expert in humanity, is the gold standard on this subject. She offers the answer for this universal yearning. Only in God will man find the truth and happiness he never stops searching for (CCC).

The beautiful form of material things attracts our eyes, so we are drawn to gold, silver and the like. We are powerfully influenced by the feel of things agreeable to the touch; and each of our other senses finds some quality that appeals to it individually in the variety of material objects.

NOTES:

- Go, eat your bread with enjoyment, and drink your wine with a merry heart; for God has already approved what you do.
  Ecclesiastes 9:7
- So whether you eat or drink or whatever you do, do all for the glory of God.
  1 Corinthians 10:31
- Be content with little or much.
  Sirach 29:23
- The human person cannot do without the material goods that correspond to his primary needs and constitute the basic conditions for his existence.
  Pius XII
- Happiness does not consist in bodily good as its object; but bodily good can add a certain charm and perfection to Happiness.
  St. Thomas Aquinas
- When a man arrives at the point of perfection in bodily pleasures, he wearies of them, and sometimes desires another kind.
  St. Thomas Aquinas
- Any one that chooses to look back on his past excesses, will perceive that pleasures had a sad ending.
  Boethius as quoted by St. Thomas Aquinas
- Because of this bodily dimension, however, following the wound of sin, man experiences the rebellion of his body and the perverse inclinations of his heart; he must always keep careful watch over these lest he become enslaved to them and become a victim of a purely earthly vision of life.
  Compendium of Catholic Social Doctrine of the Church, 128
- The end and rule of temperance itself is happiness.
  St. Thomas Aquinas
- Temperance more than any other virtue lays claim to a certain comeliness, and the vices of intemperance excel others in disgrace.
  St. Thomas Aquinas
- What we observe and seek most in temperance is the safeguarding of what is honorable, and the regard for what is beautiful.
  St. Ambrose
